

bboris@ipcglobalsolutions.com

Bill is a masterful problem-solver, skilled negotiator, and expert liaison between Western and Eastern cultures

Bill Boris

Executive Vice President

Bill Boris is a successful business owner, an automotive aftermarket pioneer, and a global businessman. Bill, as he prefers to be called, is Principal and Executive Vice President at IPC Global Solutions, a leader in manufacturing and supply chain management of automotive filtration products. Bill has been with IPC Global Solutions since 1986 and has played an integral role in transforming the company into what it is today. Bill believes the prosperity that his company has achieved is a result of building relationships beyond the business, adapting to changing markets and continuously delivering value to customers, suppliers and employees. With nearly four decades in the industry and over 100 trips abroad, Bill is a masterful problem-solver, skilled negotiator, and expert liaison between Western and Eastern cultures.

Bill lives in the town of Norwood, Massachusetts, one of Money Magazine's top 100 places to live in 2017. Bill holds a Bachelor's degree in Business Administration and Management from Nichols College. When Bill is not working, he enjoys staying active, alpine skiing, golfing, and collecting cars.

